

JUUL 101

JUULs are e-cigs that use water vapor and other chemicals to deliver nicotine to the user. A student using this would blow “vapor” out of his/her mouth – hence ‘Vaping’.

Students are using these more and more because they are presented as an alternative to smoking. It is correct that they do not use smoke, but they still deliver nicotine and can be habit forming.

These are some pictures of a “JUUL” e cig. This one has the charger with it that could easily be mistaken for a flash drive.

The disposable end pieces come in a variety of colors and flavor choices, and have been known to be filled (hacked) with homemade creations, including, but not limited to, hash and hemp oil.

JUULS and e-cigs are “charged” in a USB port.

The picture below should give some perspective on the size of the JUUL.

Per the SBISD Handbook, these are treated like tobacco violations in the Code of Conduct. ALL JUULs, e-cigs, and e-cig paraphernalia, regardless of the pod content, are BANNED from SBISD campuses.
